

UN FIELD SERVICE OFFICERS

The latest report of the Secretary General to the Security Council says that the Force's financial deficit now stands at $54.1 million dollars. Those of us in the Headquarters and the Contingents know that a small dedicated group of men are continually at work to keep the cost of the Force as small as possible. This small group includes the staff of the Finance and Claims offices at the Headquarters in UNFICYP, who are all permanent members of the United Nations Field Service Organisation, and so well do they do their job that the Chief Personnel and Logistics Officer, Lieutenant Colonel J A Hare MBE, always tells visitors in his briefing that UNFICYP is estimated as being "the most cost effective operation of its kind in the world today".

The United Nations Field Service Organisation is staffed by civilian experts from almost every nation that is a member of the UN. In UNFICYP the staff of the Finance and Claims offices are a part of the 26 Field

Service Officers who come from 13 different countries. This Organisation exists to staff the different UN missions all over the world. Since the formation of the United Nations 37 years ago this month, officers of the Field Service have served in eleven peace-keeping or relief operations. For most of the Field Service officers this has meant working for the United Nations during war and emergency periods. Seven officers currently serving in UNFICYP were in the Force during the operations of 1974. Before coming to Nicosia for their present tour all twenty six had served in UNTSO (the United Nations Truce Supervisory Organisation in Jerusalem); some with the Military Observer Group there. Eight had served in UNEF, eight in the Congo, four in Korea, two in the Yemen (with UNYOM) and one in the Lebanon. Three of them have served in UNFICYP before, including one who was in Cyprus before 1964, when the UN organisation on the Island was the UN Cyprus Observer Mission (UNCOM).

DECORATION FOR CANADIAN OFFICER

The Claims Officer is Mr J Colet. He comes, originally from the Philippines. Since joining the Field Service he has worked in UN missions in Korea, India, Pakistan, Jerusalem, Egypt, Bolivia and Ecuador. He is head of the office which deals with all the claims against UNFICYP, and those UNFICYP has against third parties.

GREAT NEED FOR TREATMENT

The first female soldier — dental nurse Ulla Wrene — to be posted to the Swedish Battalion arrived a few weeks ago with the new dentist Thomas Wisell. They are seen here testing the new dental field equipment being issued to the Swedish Army. During their six week stay they plan to treat as many patients as possible. For Nurse Ulla Wrene there have been no problems in settling down as the only woman soldier in a male dominated environment because she has worked as a dental nurse in the army for many years.

Parade for the Swedish flag

Although the 6th of June is not an official national day it is celebrated as such by the Swedish Battalion. To the Swedish Contingent it is their Flag Day, and, during a ceremony (held this year in the ruins of Salmis), the members of the Swedish Contingent saluted the yellow and blue national flag of Sweden together with the United Nations flag in the presence of the Force Commander Major General Quinn and a company of distinguished guests.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC RELATIONS VISITS UNFICYP

Brigadier M.B. Farndale, the Director of Army Public Relations, visited the Force two weeks ago. His visit only lasted 24 hours, but in that time he was able to visit Sectors Two and Four, and to meet members of the Secretariat and the other Sectors to hear what they do. He is seen above with some of the platoon at Avlona, and on the right with Lieutenant Colonel Clements the Commanding Officer of the 1st Battalion The Royal Irish Regiment on the patrol track in Sector Two.

CATERING REORGANISATION AT HQ

Recently a re-organisation has taken place amongst the 'Top Cooks' in Force Headquarters and UNFICYP Support Regiment. Until the beginning of June the Catering Adviser in the Sovereign Base Areas was also the adviser to UNFICYP, but since the beginning of June the Force has had its own Catering Adviser. WO1 B. Naylor has left the Support Regiment, and has been appointed the first Catering Adviser on the Staff of HQ UNFICYP. His job is to advise, where necessary, all contingents how to improve their catering and ration accounting. WO1 Naylor has been replaced in UNFICYP Support Regiment — the British Army's newest regiment — by WO2 P. Watmore, who takes over responsibility for catering in the Regiment and the Headquarters. He has recently been posted to UNFICYP from the Black Watch. WO1 Naylor (left) and WO2 Watmore were pictured shortly after this re-organisation.

Les Nouvelles de CANCON

Les dernière deux semaines ont été très calmes dans le Secteur 4. Le travail sur la ligne a été comme d'habitude, et notre cedule des visites a été très minime. L'évènement le plus important a été l'ouverture de notre centre de congé à Limassol. Le Commandant du Contingent était présent à l'ouverture, spécialement pour le centre et notre saison de congé.

The past two weeks have been surprisingly quiet at Sector 4. Routine work occupied the Contingent, and our visit itinerary was very light. The major event was the opening of our leave centre in Limassol with the Contingent Commander Colonel de Chastelain officially opening the centre and the leave season.

FINNS TAKE TOP PRIZE

The rifle competition with two of the teams arriving on the firing point.

But the honours at the summer shooting competition this year went to the Swedish Contingent, whose teams won the SMG and Pistol competitions and came third in the Rifle event.

The competition was once again run very well by the Finnish Contingent and the Staff Officer Plans and Training, Major Sorensen, at Dhekelia Ranges last Friday. The shooting conditions were very good with no wind and very clear visibility. The three events each took the form of a falling plate competition, with balloons being substituted for plates in the SMG and Pistol events. The final results were:

- Rifle 1st FINCON
2nd BRITCON
3rd SWEDCON
4th Support Regiment
- SMG 1st SWEDCON
2nd DANCON
3rd FINCON
4th AUSCON
- Pistol 1st SWEDCON
2nd UNCIVPOL
3rd CANCON
